

IN MEMORIAM

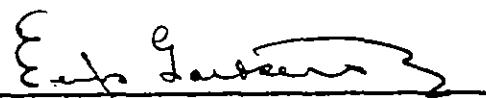

ARTHUR LeROSEN.

To those of us who have practiced law in Shreveport for many years, the passing of Arthur LeRosen leaves a void which no one else will fill. His friendly and familiar greeting, his voice and ready smile, made each meeting with him a pleasant experience.

The story of his life runs along with that of our beloved city. He was a Shreveporter, born and bred. In his school days, and particularly while attending Captain Thatcher's Institute for Boys, he was noted for studious habits and a brilliant mind. His father, David LeRosen, was among the leading citizens of Shreveport in its early days and was largely responsible for bringing the Houston, East & West Railway to Shreveport. The railway company named its first station out of Shreveport "LeRosen Station", and so it is called to this day.

The fine qualities of the father were renewed in his son, who always remembered and followed the precepts of his father in his own conduct and life. If to be honest and conscientious, to be fair and charitable to all, to see the good in all men and minimize the evil, to love his fellow man as himself, to be a devoted and affectionate son, husband, brother and father - if these are the characteristics of a good and deserving man, Arthur LeRosen was all of that and more.

To his devoted wife and children and to his sisters whom he loved so dearly we extend our heartfelt sympathy and our assurance of the respect and esteem in which their dear one was held by his brothers at the Bar.

Chairman.
